

A Message to Our Communities

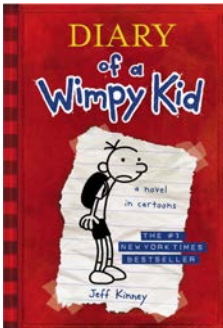

We are in full bloom here at Northwest Village School, with an array of activities and learning to inspire and help our students grow. This issue highlights some of our recent activities, including March Madness games and activities, a schoolwide reading challenge, prom, Teacher Appreciation Week, and more. Of Brackets and Books

The March Madness season inspired spirited competition and learning within our Northwest Village School community. Last month, all students participated in a reading challenge in which they entered their favorite books in a pool, and a “top favorite” emerged. A book from the Diary of a Wimpy Kid series won the competition. Other contenders included selections from the Curious George and Amulet collections, If You Give a Mouse a Cookie, The Hunger Games, and more. Four students with the most correct picks received Barnes & Noble gift cards.

Happy Hoopla

We also marked the March Madness with a staff-student basketball game in our state-of-the-art gym. As usual, our students demonstrated tremendous skill and tenacity, and at one point in the game, were down by only four points. Our staff came back to win the game, however, and the final score was 54 to 67.

Retro Prom, 'Da Bom'

From MTV to Seinfeld, a nod to records, CDs, the Swatch Watch, and so much more, it was an afternoon of 80s and 90s nostalgia as Northwest Village School juniors and seniors enjoyed an amazing retro-themed prom. Delicious food, dancing, and games were all part of this event, which helped celebrate the school year as well as the future for soon-to-be graduates.

Thank You, NVS Educators!

Teacher Appreciation Week (May 8-12) is a good reminder of the many contributions our educators make to the lives and learning of students. We are thankful for our teachers, many of whom are pictured here, for their tireless work and commitment to the NVS community.
